Art Unit: 1742

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Busch et al. (U.S. Patent 5,061,914) or the Spassov et al. Crystal Research and Technology article.

The prior art discloses heat treating a thin film of an amorphous TiNi alloy containing from 50-66 atomic percent titanium at a temperature of 600-800 K (327-527°C). See Busch column 6, lines 53-68 or Spassov page 106, particularly Figure 9d. The prior art does not specify that one obtains the nanometer-scale precipitate as set forth in the instant claims. However, both the process as claimed and the prior art described above involve subjecting a particular material to an identical set of process steps. The examiner therefore assumes that any resultant effect with respect to precipitates present would likewise be the same, absent evidence to the contrary. Consequently, a prima facie case of obviousness is established between the disclosures of Busch et al. or Spassov et al. and the presently claimed process.

3. This is a continuation of applicant's earlier Application No. 10/ 281143. All claims are drawn to the same invention claimed in the earlier application and could have been finally rejected on the grounds and art of record in the next Office action if they had been entered in the earlier application. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL even though it is a first action in this case. See MPEP § 706.07(b). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
